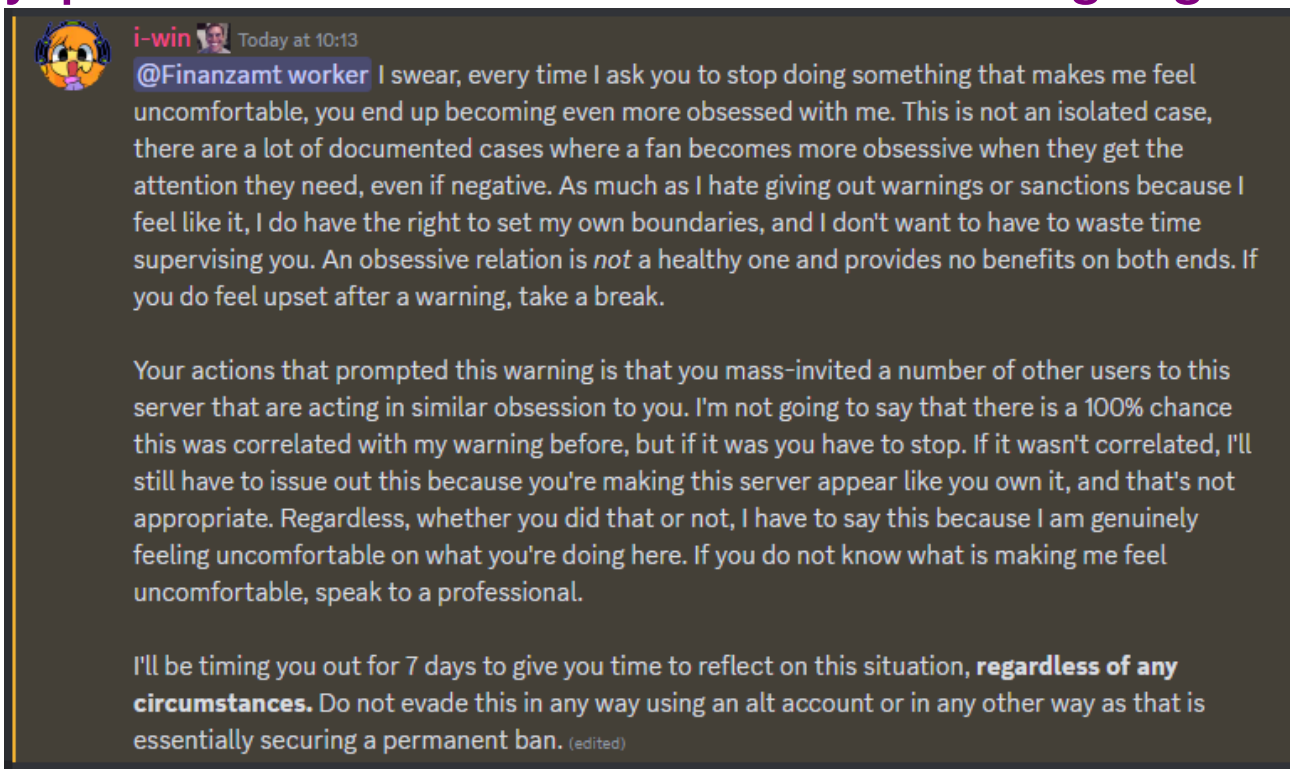
This message was sent out on behalf of the i-win media group of Canada.
If you have not subscribed to our mailing list on https://shde24.github.io/mlist, please reply with /stop to stop receiving these messages.

SHDE public service announcement

Hey guys! SHDE here, again, to waste your time with another service announcement (and if you couldn't tell by the header, this is another i-win related announcement).

So you remember yesterday that I had to put down a service announcement regarding i-win not being able to accept overobsessive fans for who they are? Well, it's happened again, only this time, instead of a small warning, we get a professional yapsesh. Here is a screenshot of the message I got.



i-win Today at 10:13

@Finanzamt worker I swear, every time I ask you to stop doing something that makes me feel uncomfortable, you end up becoming even more obsessed with me. This is not an isolated case, there are a lot of documented cases where a fan becomes more obsessive when they get the attention they need, even if negative. As much as I hate giving out warnings or sanctions because I feel like it, I do have the right to set my own boundaries, and I don't want to have to waste time supervising you. An obsessive relation is not a healthy one and provides no benefits on both ends. If you do feel upset after a warning, take a break.

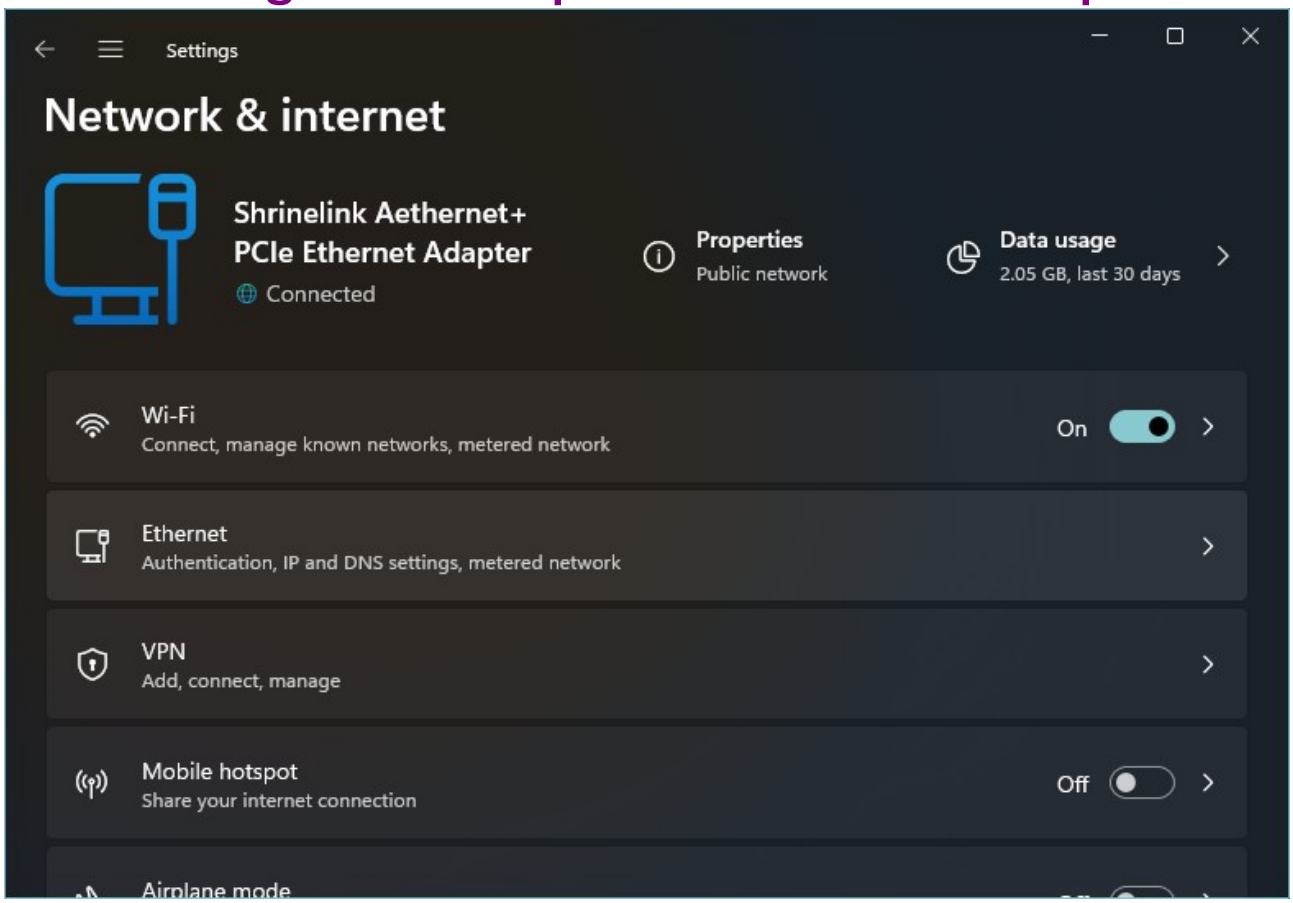
Your actions that prompted this warning is that you mass-invited a number of other users to this server that are acting in similar obsession to you. I'm not going to say that there is a 100% chance this was correlated with my warning before, but if it was you have to stop. If it wasn't correlated, I'll still have to issue out this because you're making this server appear like you own it, and that's not appropriate. Regardless, whether you did that or not, I have to say this because I am genuinely feeling uncomfortable on what you're doing here. If you do not know what is making me feel uncomfortable, speak to a professional.

I'll be timing you out for 7 days to give you time to reflect on this situation, regardless of any circumstances. Do not evade this in any way using an alt account or in any other way as that is essentially securing a permanent ban. (edited)

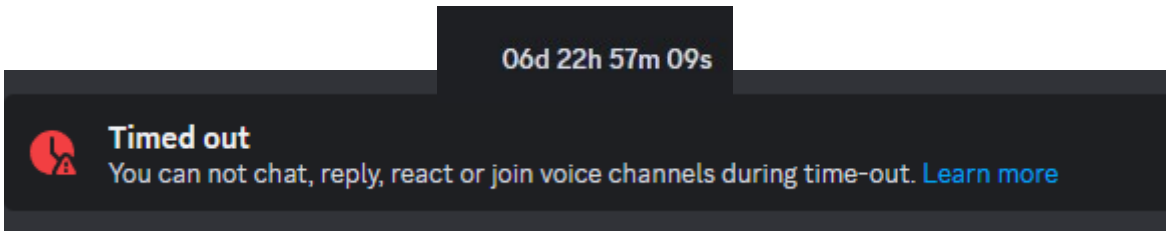
Just like yesterday, I was in school, connected to school internet, and using a school device. Now

This message was sent out on behalf of the i-win media group of Canada.
If you have not subscribed to our mailing list on https://shde24.github.io/mlist, please reply with /stop to stop receiving these messages.

your probably saying “SHDE! You use Mastodon and Discord all the time in school! Why couldn’t you have checked it then??”, and well, I did! (after connecting to my school’s Aethernet jack (because screw using WiFi that provides next to no speed).



Regardless, I have received a 1wk timeout for my “actions”, which if you ask me, is completely out of order.



I also hope i-win is aware that everyone else that I’ve liked in the past has never complained, and this is the first complaint I've received from a YouTuber bigger than 100k subscribers.

This message was sent out on behalf of the i-win media group of Canada.
If you have not subscribed to our mailing list on https://shde24.github.io/mlist, please reply with /stop to stop receiving these messages.

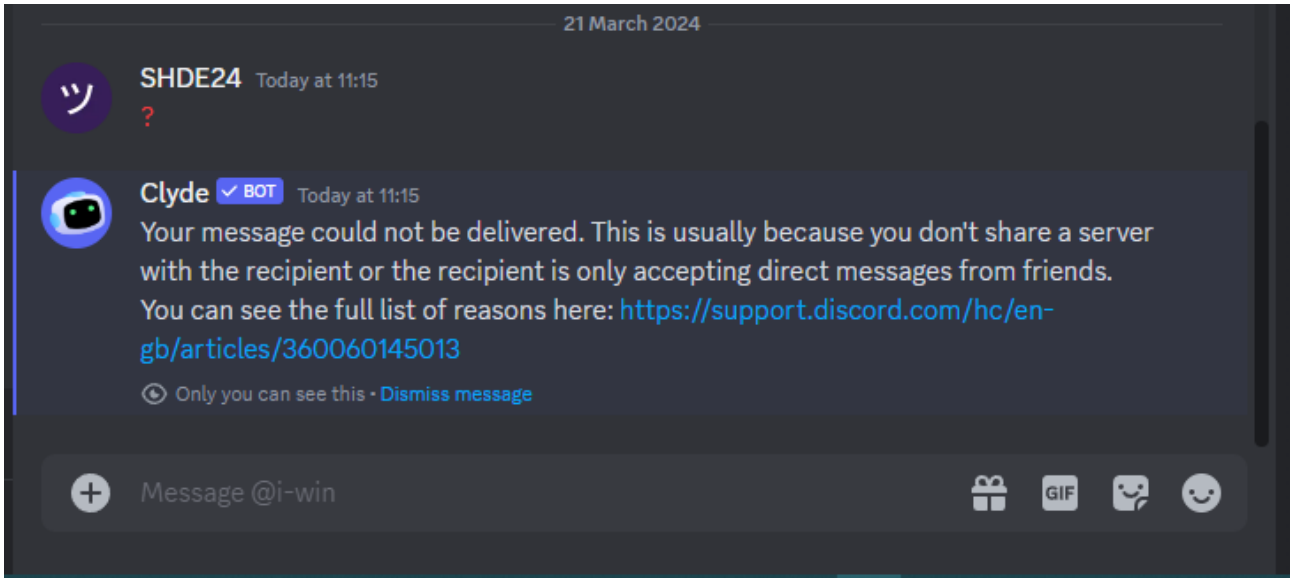
i-win has also blocked me on Discord (as shown by this DM I tried to send):



This whole situation is completely out of order, all because i-win doesn't appreciate her younger and somewhat overobsessive audience. Due to this situation, all remaining socials that I haven't rebranded will rebrand effective from tonight at 6:45pm GMT. We here at ShrinelinkSHDE LLC UK expected better from i-win and she has failed us.

This is all your fault.

- Thomas Hall
aka ShrinelinkDev24